

Archimedes class is within the Functional learning approach and is based at the Snodland site. In class there are 5 students and 3 members of staff.

Students plan their own shopping lists and access weekly offsite shopping experiences, in order to cook their own lunch and have snacks for the week. They work on life / independence skills daily. They also work on social / communication skills, especially when working across the learning approach, during mixed class activities.

Students access a weekly community experience and gardening activity either on or off site, where they learn to behave safely in different environments and important work based skills.

In functional literacy/numeracy we are covering topics such as; menus, instructions, CVs, advocating for ourselves and using digital skills across the curriculum.

Our learning is accredited through ASDAN Personal Progress.
